In early January 1953, source observed from the Lodenau-Bremenham-Rothenburg road, 16 or 17 newly constructed single-story brick buildings with flat roofs in a large plantation west of the railroad line from Lodenau to Rothenburg. The buildings were of the same type, and each of them had 10 windows. Soviet truck [] was observed between Lodenau and Bremenham. Source learned from residents of Lodenau that a section of the barracks installation was occupied by Russians and that an airfield was being built near Bremenham.
